Celine Sparks is a graduate of Freed-Hardeman University with a B.A. in Communication/Theatre and a Master's in Education. She is the author of Because I Said So and So Good Whatever They Said to Fried Chicken 2, and is the winner of the Christian Women magazine. She is married to Scotty Sparks, minister for the Martin Lake Baptist Church of Christ in Huntville, Alabama, and is mom to Abram, Mathias, and Miriam, all students of Freed-Hardeman. Celine Sparks is in high school. Celine enjoys making friendships with ladies as she speaks throughout the country, and she loves teaching children's and teen girls' classes at home. She is coordinator of youth special events at Polishing the Pulpit, and is involved in FHM's Horizons program, Fall Creek Falls Summer Bible Camp, and Lads to Leaders. She and her husband serve in operations at North Alabama Christian School, where she directs a traveling children's theatre group, The Pied Pipers of North Alabama. Celine's hobbies are browsing antiques, watching Crimson Tide football and losing lists she has just written. She is a firm believer in a proven ancient health stimulant
